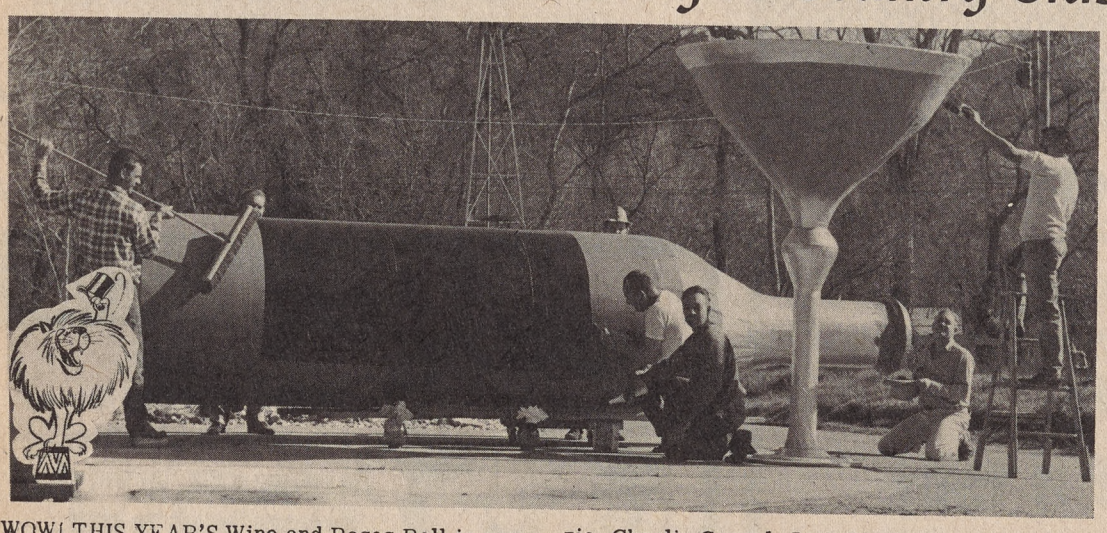
Wine and Roses Ball to swing at Country Club



WOW! THIS YEAR'S Wine and Roses Ball is certainly concentrating on the bubbly. Lion members finished work last weekend on the 22-foot champagne bottle which Lloyd Todd designed to go with his now famous bubbling champagne glass. The two will constitute the decorations at the ball to be held Saturday night at the CV Golf and Country Club. Dancing to Marty Artellan's Orchestra will begin at 9 p.m. Tickets at $1 may be purchased from Lions Club members or at the door. Proceeds go to benefit the Community Center. (Photo by George T.C. Chamber circulates petition for more police protection

Concern with increasing lawlessness in Carmel Valley boiled over at the CV Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting Wednesday at Rippling River Lodge.

Pres. Tom Bottaro was unanimously authorized to prepare a petition, copies of which are now available for signing by local residents in Valley business establishments. The petition follows:

"We the undersigned hereby express our urgent concern for the increasing number of cases of vandalism, theft and assaults in the Carmel Valley area—increasing contempt for law and order. We feel that inadequate police protection is a definite factor in this, and we ask that both the quantity and quality of police controlling be increased throughout Carmel Valley."

The problem of increasing crime, particularly by juveniles, was highlighted by Herb Brownell, who declared that the Valley, which contributed $12,500 to the county in room tax money, is entitled to some of it back in added protection from the sheriff's department. He said that he wasn't criticizing Sheriff Jack Davenport, whose budget is held down by the supervisors. The chamber agreed to advise Davenport and Supervisor Willard Branson of the petitions.

MORE PROTECTION

Brownell pointed out that petitions in San Ardo in south county apparently are producing

Clifford reviews Vietnam history for Kiwanis

"Here comes World War III—if we pull out in Vietnam," George Clifford told CV Kiwanis Tuesday noon at Los Laureles Lodge.

Reviewing the long and painful history of Vietnam, Clifford, who is a retired Navy captain, emphasized that his opinions were personal, not official. A Valley resident, he is Kiwanis vice president.

"If we move out, the Communists will move in," he said, "and the South Vietnamese will turn against us, too. We would lose the rest of Southeast Asia; India and Indonesia won't trust us, and the Philippines and Japan would have to make accommodations. People in Europe and Latin America would question our motives."

He said that our weaknesses include our exposed position, Viet Cong sanctuaries in adjacent countries and limitations of our capability as illustrated by the Pueblo incident near

White Oaks launches 1968 fund-raising drive

White Oaks Theatre today announced the start of their 1968 fund-raising drive. The theatre, which is a non-profit corporation, derives support from grants and private donations in order to supplement their earnings.

This year's goal, according to producer Sally Church, is $60,000. This sum will enable White Oaks to present a summer musical season, and continue with its touring program to schools throughout California.

Last year at this time, the theatre faced a major financial crisis. By means of a community-sponsored drive, funds were raised which allowed the theatre to re-open.

This year, the situation is not quite as serious, but the work of the theatre would be drastically hampered without a 100% response to this appeal.

Miss Church emphasized that a donation to White Oaks Theatre as to any arts organization, is as basic an economic aid as a donation to any of the many large health and welfare organizations.

Quoting from a recent report on the arts published by the Twentieth Century Fund, she said, "The live performing arts in the United States are not self-supporting. At present the substantial 'income gap' of theater, opera music and dance – the difference between their earned income and expenditures – is covered by contributions."

January, February and March present an annual crisis in theater operation. While at this time last year White Oaks was without any guaranteed future income, this year the touring group alone is already contracted to play to 32,000 children in 1968.

Members of the community who are interested in making a tax-free donation to White Oaks Theatre are urged to do so immediately.

CV Property Owners Association votes to contribute $1,000 to Jacks Peak Park

The board of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association approved the contribution of $1,000 to the Jacks Peak Fund towards the $45,000 needed as a down payment on the parcel of land planned as a park.

Because more than $250 cannot be expended at one time without a vote by the general membership, that amount was dispatched now with a vote coming on the remaining $750 to come at a specially scheduled meeting prior to Feb. 15. This is necessitated by the deadline date of the 15th which the Nature Conservancy and Monterey Foundation set for the completion of the fund drive.

Supervisor Willard Branson recently gave a personal donation to the group as did the Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The special meeting will have a two-fold purpose, adding a discussion and explanation of flood plain zoning which had been requested by Planning Commissioner Keith Evans of Carmel.

CVPOA members will be notified by mail of the meeting date.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

In other business, the board announced the beginning of a drive to collect from 259 persons who joined last year and have not yet paid dues and then interest other residents who have not been members to join.

Stanley T. B. Johnson was named chairman of the budget committee, Mrs. John Woolfenden was named chairman of the conservation committee, George Brown is head of the Master Plan study, and St. E. Tyner was named to head the membership committee.

TELEGRAM SENT

The board also voted to send a telegram to the supervisors requesting that no action be taken on special tax concessions to landowners who constitute less than 1% of the county population without further study. South county farmers asked that state legislature granting agricultural scenic easements be put into effect.

"The Communists have a loyalty to their cause, a tradition of victories over the French and Japanese, and a superb fighting force," Clifford added.

He said that Ho Chi Min believes we're losing our will to win and that he feels Russia and China won't allow his side to lose.

Our principal strength, Clifford said, include a fine fighting force of 500,000 men and air superiority. He added that he was particularly concerned about the situation because he has a son recently commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the Marines.

Important slope density hearing Valentine Day

The opportunity to take another step in implementing the Carmel Valley Master Plan will be before the County Planning Commission next Wednesday, Feb. 14. It is the continuation of the public hearing on the proposed slope-density formula — and probably the time for a vote on the proposal.

Approval of the proposed slope-density formula would achieve a major objective of the CV Master Plan, which describes its purpose: "to preserve the rural character and native beauty of the Carmel Valley while serving as a general guide to direct its development." Slope-density control is a tool to "protect and enhance the Valley's natural environs while providing sufficient space for proper growth," to quote the Master Plan again.

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association provided the original impetus to study the problem of hillside development. It exploded into the concern of Valleyites not only because of the Alcan breach in the master-plan formula of one-dwelling-per-acre, but because subdivisions were starting to move off the Valley floor up the mountain sides around.

CVPOA INSPIRED

Spurred on by the CVPOA, the planning firm of William Spangle & Associates was hired by the county to study slope-density of Carmel Valley. In April 1966, the firm submitted a 42-page report which declared: "We have concluded that regulating the density of residential development based on steepness of terrain is a valid concept." The report expressed appreciation for help to both the CVPOA and the large property owners' group, then called "The Monterey County Council for Conservation and Planning," and to individual property owners and to the county.

The Spangler report concluded that a new instrument, slope-density formula, appears to be necessary to prevent over-development of the hillsides which form Carmel Valley.

"The study is an outgrowth of the concern of the residents of Carmel Valley over the course of residential hillside development and the density and character which this type of development is likely to assume during future years," the report explains. "The residents have been concerned that the one-acre minimum building site allowed under the existing zoning pattern will permit excessive density for the hillsides and also that under cluster subdivision practices the densities possible will in fact be greater than have been permitted in the past."

HIGHER PRICES

The larger building sites on hillsides, which would result from the proposed slope-density control, would it is pointed out, stimulate the upward trend of the price of homesites in Carmel Valley. This would continue the trend towards pricing homes in the Valley beyond the means of many younger people, unfortunate and unhealthy discrimination of a sort.

The practical fact of this situation is that it is already being created by the acre minimum zoning, which is desired by practically all Valleyites. The scenic blessings of Carmel Valley, protected by open space, add to its special beauty and desirability. These assets have been well-defended by appreciative Valleyites, with the inevitable result of increasing demand and prices.

Some major property owners have been worried that measuring slope will be difficult and expensive. County Planning Director Ed DeMars offers reassurance that this is not the case. One of his staff members has developed a method so practical and simple that it is being picked up in Santa Clara County and elsewhere.

In spite of the inevitable addition of red tape to development of steep terrain by the proposed slope-density formula, it is the simplest and most efficient way to do the job fairly. We hope the Planning Commission will follow the lead of our own Valley representative and PlanCom chairman, Dr. Ed Marcucci, who has worked well for a slope-density formula and its advantages to the Valley as a whole.

PERSPECTIVE

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Outlook:

Many people have said that the young people of the CVYO should help raise the money for the Youth Center with money raising projects.

They have tried many times but have not had the support of the adults and parents of the community.

Last Saturday's "chili dinner" was a miserable failure, as were other projects!

The young people worked very hard, decorating and setting attractive tables with candles, etc. They also had recorded Mexican music and plenty of good food.

Who came? Two families and two ladies!

To say the youngsters were disappointed is putting it mildly.

With so much attention being given to the undesirable elements of our young people, why can't we praise and give our support to the many fine youngsters who are trying so hard to establish the Youth Center. The best way we can help them is to attend their money-raising projects.

Is it too much to ask us to help by enjoying ourselves?

SCHOOL NOTES

Parents must aid schools

Importance of parental supervision is emphasized in letters on the Carmel School District's policy on drugs, which were being mailed to parents this week. It is signed by Supt. Harris A. Taylor.

The letter, addressed "Dear Parents," follows:

"Attached is a copy of the Carmel Unified School District's policy dealing with the supplying, possession and use of illegal drugs by students. It is hoped that this letter, which is being sent to each family with a student enrolled in school, will assist in the elimination of this very serious social problem.

"The use of illegal drugs by our young people is not a problem for which the schools are solely responsible in effecting a solution; it is a problem which impinges on every member of the community, especially parents of students.

"The schools, however, have four distinct responsibilities: (1) Informing the parents about the student use of illegal drugs, (2) Educating pupils about illegal drugs, (3) Protecting students from those who use and/or sell illegal drugs, (4) Assisting those students who have been involved in illegal drug use in becoming a fully participating member of the student body when and if they return to school.

"As of this date, two students who were involved with illegal drugs no longer attend school in the Carmel Unified School District. We hope that this number does not increase, but we full well realize that there is no evidence to cause us to believe that the problem is diminishing.

"A simple hard fact remains for us to consider. It is the responsibility of the home to protect young people against the committing of a felony — the use, sale or possession of illegal drugs.

"Inadequate parental supervision coupled with adequate spending money and transportation can set the stage for an ugly drama. The Carmel Unified School District pledges its full resources to you in making sure that your son or daughter is not involved with this problem, now or in the future. Any suggestions from you would benefit all — the students, the parents, the schools, and the community."

Carmel artists take honors at NPGS Religious Art Show

Arts Coordinating Council publishes monthly calendar

A new monthly calendar of arts events published by the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County as a community service was launched last week with an issue of 10,000 copies circulated to the public county-wide through a number of convenient outlets.

"Focus on the Arts" is the title of the publication which will appear the first of each month in a date-calendar format, listing time and place of events in a manner that makes it possible to tell at a glance what art activities are scheduled in the area on any given date. Museums and public galleries are listed with locations, hours and current exhibitions.

The calendar is made possible for the coming year by a generous grant from the United California Bank which was arranged by J. Scott Rambach's interest because it tied in with a similar calendar of Bay Area events which his bank publishes in San Francisco.

Work was begun on the idea over a year ago by Michael McGinnis, director of community services at MPC, who was appointed chairman of the project. McGinnis researched existing listings and developed a calendar of events in cooperation with the college that supplemented rather than duplicated present services.

The calendar will be available without charge at all public libraries and chambers of commerce in the county; at all branches of the United California Bank and at Hartnell and Monterey Peninsula Colleges. It will also be available at Holman's Department Store, Macy's, Monterey, the new Carmel Rancho Safeway Store and at the Thunderbird Bookstores in Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach as well as at all public galleries and museums.

Persons wishing to have the calendar mailed to them may subscribe for one dollar a year by writing the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County, Box 2344, Carmel, Calif. 93921.

At the Galleries

Kellogg Gallery re-opens

Mr. and Mrs. James Dickie have reopened their Jean Kellogg Gallery after a vacation of gallery-going in San Francisco.

Their upstairs display room in the Carmel Valley Plaza on Del Fino Place is open Tuesday through Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. and throughout the month of February will feature paintings by Akio, Arnal and Graves, along with new prints by Minna Citron and Jean Kellogg (Mrs. Dickie).

Fine prints and objects d'art from Japan and East India are also part of the exhibit this month.

Ken Wiese exhibit

A one-man show featuring the sculpture of Kenneth W. Wiese is currently on exhibit at Seaside City Hall.

Mr. Wiese has been a crafts instructor in the Carmel Unified School District for 14 years. He is a member of the Carmel Crafts Guild and the Carmel Art Association.

He has a master's degree from Fresno State and has studied at California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland as well as under Alex Weygers in Carmel Valley.

Merilyn Brown show

Paintings by local artist Merilyn Brown are on exhibit in the library lobby at Santa Catalina School for Girls. Miss Brown, who is a member of Carmel Art Association, studied art at the University of Washington and Monterey Peninsula College.

The exhibit of paintings in acrylic, watercolor and mixed media, will be at the school through Feb. 23.

The public is invited to a reception for the artist this Friday at 7:30 p.m. At other times the library is open Monday through Thursday until 9 p.m., Fridays until 6 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 11 to 5 p.m.

Voter registration

Official voter registration station in Carmel Valley is now at Things Camera shop with manager Richard Faulkner, in Carmel Valley Village.

The Rhyming Philosopher

We live our daily lives as if unsure
That day will follow night, that rain will fall.
Yet deer still graze the meadow quite secure
As watchful quail repeat their guardian call.

Each ev'ning now wild pigeons come to drink
And swoop from tall madrones on silken wings,
While we poor mortals sway upon the brink
Of indecisions and bewilderings.

Man, lord of all creation, lives in dread
Of each tomorrow--something could go wrong!
Man against Man. The words have all been said,
So now for blood.
None heard the linnet's song!
Who has the answer? Shall there be no peace
Until all human life on earth must cease?

Whatever comes, we two still have this day,
Each moment, one by one, is ours to live
And relish love each in his special way
Since there is nothing else worthwhile to give.
Despite all rules or edicts, rote or rhyme,
We can but live one moment at a time.

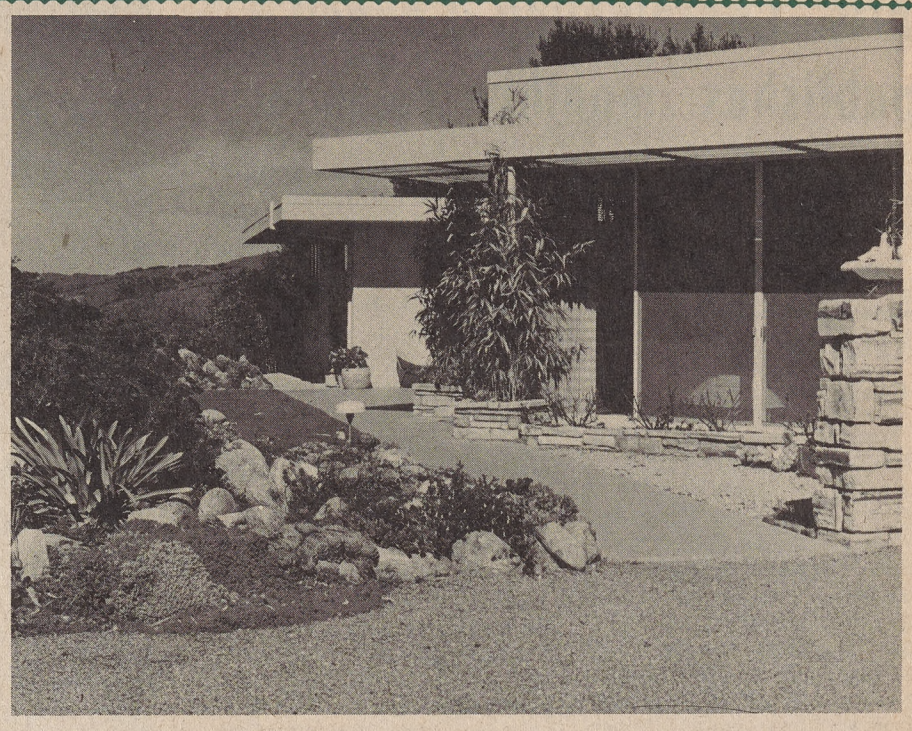
TROPICAL PLANTS DOMINATE the entranceway to the living room in the Porters' home. A complete reversal from their original house in Robles del Rio, "Enchantment" as they call their place, stresses the indoor-outdoor, light and airy feeling of Hawaiian living.



PERCHED ON A TERRACE overlooking Country Club Drive, the Porter house faces toward Garzas Canyon and the magnificent sunsets. Each room has sliding doors to the outside and the house is surrounded by patios and lanais for outdoor enjoyment.

"Think Pink" is keynote of Frank and Jet Porter's house

When the Frank Porters decided to move from their original Valley house in Robles del Rio and build a new one, they went to the absolute opposite in architecture, color and atmosphere.

"Think Pink" was Jet Porter's key theme and the entire house is oriented to this color. When the painter was finishing up the walls after having spent a number of days applying varying shades of pink and rose, he commented that he always felt like he had bloodshot eyes when he left to go home.

Last week we pictured the original Porter house, now owned by Bettie O'Neal. This was rustic, with dark panelling and beams, and a stained redwood exterior.

The present Porter house, built 11 years ago, sits in bright sunshine off Country Club Drive and presents a feeling of the tropics both from outside and inside.

The pinks are all muted shades, from the soft beige pink of the tile floors to the pale off-white of the walls. Accessories in brilliant shocking pinks, combined with greens and blues, and many tropical plants and flowers transplant one to an island paradise. The entire house is oriented to the out-of-doors and sunshine.

Jet never tires of looking at the view of the hills up Garzas Canyon. At night, walking out on the patio, she feels as if she could almost touch the stars.

There is a covered lanai for eating near the kitchen, patios off the dining area and the living room, and sliding doors from the bedrooms to patios at the rear of the house.

The sliding glass doors in the dining area open to a lush fern grotto with a fountain and south sea island shells, moss, baby tears, and tender rock plants. This view is framed by two huge Australian tree ferns.

Originally this was a dry, unattractive adobe bank, but the Porters transformed it into a completel,y controlled tropical view. (See page 18.)

"Enchantment," as the Porters call their pink house, holds the double enchantment of being extremely easy to care for. It was entirely planned for carefree maintenance and easy living.

"We loved the old house in Robles," Jet said, "but we figured as long as we were going to change we would do a complete reversal . . . We had just gotten back from a visit to our daughter in Maui and the transition to Hawaiian influence was a natural thing."

So, there is a little bit of Maui in Carmel Valley.

OLIVE AND BRUCE GRIMES

Togetherness works happily in 'Seven Seas' Shop for the musical Olive and Bruce Grimes

Running a successful retail business is a far cry from doing volunteer work and pursuing an operatic career, but these are the backgrounds of Bruce and Olive Grimes, owners of Seven Seas, a gift shop on Dolores Street.

Formerly called The House of the Seven Seas... and originally located in the Court of the Golden Bough on Ocean Ave., the shop was started by Bruce and Olive 13 years ago. It was ten years ago that they moved the shop to Dolores, between Ocean and Seventh.

Prior to moving to Carmel, Bruce had been in advertising in San Francisco and they had lived in Palo Alto. Olive had worked as a housewife and mother to their son, John, who is now in southern California in executive training for Bank of America. She spent her spare time doing Grey Lady, hospital volunteer, and Red Cross work ...with never a thought of running a shop.

They decided that this was the area they wanted to retire to, so they moved here to get established before that time. Like so many other Carmelites they found their own means of making a living in order to stay where they wanted to be.

Bruce was a graduate of Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., in music. After leaving college, he signed a contract with the Chicago Civic Opera Company and then traveled and gave operatic concerts in Europe before the war.

About ten years ago, he went back to music and began to sing with the Carmel Bach Festival Chorus. Rehearsals start next week and he is again singing bass with the group.

Although Olive does not work with the Festival Chorus, she plays the piano, and uses the time when Bruce is in rehearsal for her own music practice.

Some years ago, the Grimes purchased one of the interesting old houses of Carmel, Ivy Corners, on Dolores St. Through the years they have been working together redecorating and remodeling it and its guest house, "Ivy Corners Cottage." Recently, Olive (who is about 5'2") said they painted the entire two story structure themselves. It is easier to visualize her handling delicate china or objets d'art from far-off lands than hanging onto the end of a ladder with a paint brush... but this is one husband-wife team that appears to get things done together... and enjoy it.

John W. Twibell

Peace Corpsman to S. Seas

John W. Twibell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Twibell of Fisher Dr., Carmel, has recently been named a Peace Corps volunteer after completing ten weeks of training at the Peace Corps Training Center in Molokai, Hawaii.

He is one of approximately 90 new volunteers assigned to the independent Kingdom of Tonga in the South Pacific. Most of the volunteers will teach math, science, social studies and English in primary and secondary schools, introducing modern teaching methods.

During his training, Twibell studied the Tongan language, history and culture as well as technical studies. His early January arrival brings the number of Peace Corps volunteers in Tonga to about 130.

He can be contacted by writing: c/o Peace Corps, Nuku'alofa, Kingdom of Tonga.

Twibell graduated in 1967 from San Francisco State College where he majored in biology. He was vice president of his class at Pacific Grove High.

His wife, Marie, is also a Peace Corps volunteer with him.

Virtuoso Brazilian pair 'Los Indios Tabajaras' to give concert Sunday

Internationally-noted "Los Indios Tabajaras," Brazilian virtuosos of guitar and voice, will present a concert this Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the Sunset Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Carmel Cultural Commission, reservations may be made by calling Sunset Center box office, 624-9892. Tickets are also available at Abinante and ABC music stores, Monterey.

Fame of Mussapere and Herundy, brothers of a Tabajaras Indian tribe, spread from Rio de Janeiro through Latin America and Spain.

SIGNED BY RCA

RCA Victor signed them to an exclusive recording contract and brought them to the U.S. They have just returned from a successful four-week tour of Japan and have appeared four times on the Johnny Carson Tonight Show. They have debuted at Town Hall, New York, and will shortly appear on the Ed Sullivan Show.

WIDE REPERTOIRE

Critics marvel at their melodic and inspired performances of everything from classic to lilting folk music.

"We are unusually fortunate to secure Los Indios Tabajaras," commented Manager Cole Weston of Sunset Center. "They are big-league entertainers and usually play much bigger centers than ours. I'm sure we'll have the finest response here."

Silver Star for Cpl. J. Townsend

Cpl. James S. Townsend II, son of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Townsend, 3141 Bird Rock Rd., Pebble Beach, has been awarded the Silver Star Medal for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action while serving as a squad leader with Company B, 1st Battalion, 5th Marines, 1st Marine Division in Vietnam.

On Sept. 4, 1967, during Operation Swift, Cpl. Townsend's platoon launched an assault against a well entrenched force of North Vietnamese Army regulars. During the ensuing fire fight, the Marines sustained heavy casualties from the intense enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire. Disregarding his own safety, Townsend unhesitatingly exposed himself to the heavy volume of fire to control his squad and deliver M-79 grenade launcher fire against the hostile positions. When his supply of ammunition was depleted, he seized a rifle and several hand grenades from a wounded comrade and continued to assault the enemy emplacements.

Cpl. Townsend was released from active duty on Jan. 26.

KEITH WHITE VISITS

A former Valley resident, Keith White, spent a few days in the Valley last week as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. John Davis at the Hastings Reservation. In addition to conferring with new personnel at the Reservation, he had an opportunity to visit with Valley friends at a dinner party given by Betty and John. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richerts, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bresk, and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Kern.

Keith, who is associated with an extension of the University of Wisconsin, brought greetings from Betty and the five children at their snowy home in Manotowoc, Wisc.

REIMER BIRTHDAY

A gay cluster of balloons marked the mailbox at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Carl J. Reimer, 933 W. Carmel Valley Rd. last Saturday as a welcome for the boys invited to share the party honoring the eleventh birthday of the Reimer's son, Jimmy. Following luncheon Jimmy and his guests were taken to Monterey for an afternoon of roller skating at the Del Monte Gardens.

Attending were Richard Hentges, Jim Giordano, Dominic Canavaro, Glen Cleary, Richard Thacker, Dusty Sheyed, and Kevin Shabram.

ANDERSON PARTY

Early English games from her native homeland were taught to the guests invited to the dinner party given Saturday night by Mrs. Doris Anderson at her home in Hitchcock Canyon. Guests also enjoyed dancing, charades, and the opportunity to view the portrait of Mrs. Anderson presented to her recently as a birthday gift by Mr. and Mrs. John Dryden.

Done in pastels in New Orleans, the portrait shows Mrs. Anderson in the large picture hat and costume worn at a masquerade ball where she appeared as "Diamond Lil" and was taken from four snapshots made at that time.

Among those attending Saturday's event were her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Val Hood of Lafayette, and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kendelvitch also of that city, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Antoncich, Mrs. Bettie O'Neal, Mrs. Joan Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Al Parker, Jimmy Washington, Peter Roberts, Will Fay, Virginia Adaow, Cliff Washington, Roger Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Anderson.

ROSES FOR BALL

When asked what they did with their time last Wednesday, a number of wives of Carmel Valley Lions were able to say, "We spent the whole 'bloomin' day' at Ora Todd's home making roses to decorate at the annual Wine and Roses Ball." The event, scheduled for Feb. 10 at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, has become one of the best attended winter social events and is always enhanced by the colorful decorations made by the Lionettes.

Making up the work party on Aliso Rd. were Mmes. Phil Wright, William Stowers, Hank Blatnik, Art Fosso, Kenneth Korver, Lee Dufur, and Lloyd Todd.

20TH ANNIVERSARY

A group of friends dropped by the Garner home at the corner of Laurel Dr. and W. Carmel Valley Rd. last Friday evening to help Shirley and Cal celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary. The guests provided refreshments for the party as well as a shower of greeting cards, games, and community singing planned for entertainment.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kaminske, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nielsen, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Baugh and Mr. Van Buren.

YMCA DINNER

A number of Valley families were spotted in attendance at the dinner Tuesday evening for the Corporate members and families of the YMCA. Sponsored by the Board of Directors, the third annual event was held in Halleck Hall of Seaside High.

FAMILY BEREAVED

The sympathies of their many Valley friends accompanied Tina and Mal Tavares and children who were called to Tulare last Wednesday by the death of Mal's father. A rosary was held on Wednesday and the funeral services on Thursday.

10TH BIRTHDAY

Traditional birthday cake, ice cream and party games highlighted the celebration planned recently for Laura Beth Valpey who was ten years old. Invitations were mailed to Mimi Henderson, Katherine Blevens, Sherrie Swiess, Christine Kuenkle, Niki Nedeff, Judy Wright and Laura Busick. Laura Beth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Valpey, 5 Esquiline Rd.

"RETURN TO THE SOUTH PACIFIC" is the next Explorers Club feature film and lecture, to be presented this Saturday evening at 8:15 at Sunset Center by Thayer Soule, noted explorer. His film and lecture will cover Hawaii, Tahiti, Fiji, Guadalcanal and the Solomons. Tickets are available at Central Box Office in Carmel, and Abinante Music Store in Monterey. Following this, the next Explorers Club feature will be Feb. 24 on "Stone Age New Guinea."

Explorerama returns to Pacific

"Return to the South Pacific," a new feature length full color travel-adventure film, will be narrated in person by its photographer, Thayer Soule, at 8:15 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 10, at Carmel's Sunset Auditorium.

Thayer Soule was in charge of all Marine Corps photography in the South Pacific area during World War II. His film contains some rather unique footage taken before the war, some very rare Defense Dept. film taken during the war and his own current footage which was taken last year and brings the South Pacific area into historical perspective and up to date.

The program is part of the current Explorerama series which is presented by the Explorers Club of San Francisco.

Istvan Nadas to play at Hartnell College

Istvan Nadas, Hungarian-born concert pianist, will perform a program including Bartok, under whom he studied in Hungary; Beethoven, Bach and Liszt, on Thursday evening at 8, Feb. 8, in the Hartnell College student union.

The concert is open to the public; there is no admission charge.

Friends of Photog. to feature student work at Sunset show

Something unusual and different, an exhibit of photos by a group of outstanding students, will be featured at a new exhibit at Carmel Photography Center in Sunset Center, which will open with a reception this Friday from 8 to 10:30 p.m.

The public is cordially invited to the opening Friday evening and to view the exhibit which will be on display through March 15, daily from 1 to 4 p.m., except Mondays.

The new exhibit, which highlights new directions and ideas in photography, is by top students at the Institute of Design at Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, and others at University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.

Because the majority of the photos have never been shown on the West Coast, the exhibit is expected to draw special attention from those interested in new trends in photography.

'Generation' to open this weekend at Studio Theatre

The cast of the William Goodhart comedy, "Generation," opening Friday at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel, is headed by Richard Barratt in the role made famous by Henry Fonda two seasons ago on Broadway. Barratt has played leads in "The Teahouse of the August Moon," "Bus Stop," "The Rainmaker," "The Crucible" and "Two for the Seesaw" where he also had the Henry Fonda part.

The young couple whose belated marriage and imminent parenthood undermine her father's resolution to play it cool are Anne Brown and Jim Trivitte, most recently seen together in "Little Mary Sunshine."

The supporting cast includes James Lancina, one of the poker-playing cronies of "The Odd Couple" at the Studio last fall. Kent Seavey who has been with the San Jose Civic Light Opera and the Riverside Civic Opera Company in light roles, and Rick Wolf who has appeared in numerous drama productions at MPC and in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" at the Studio.

Under the direction of Don Osborn and with setting and lighting by Bob Evans, Jr., "Generation" will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights for the next seven weekends.

Reservations for dinner and show or show only may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

Robert Hutchins to speak at MPC

Robert M. Hutchins will lecture at Monterey Peninsula College Friday, Feb. 9.

He will speak on "The Outlook for Education" at 8 p.m. in the National Guard Armory. Free tickets will be available at the college administration building switchboard from Feb. 2, or may be obtained by mail when requests, addressed to the Community Services Office at MPC, are accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mike Keller to star as 'Harvey' with Golden Bough Players

"Harvey," a comedy of rare appeal to all ages, will open next at Circle Theatre, Friday evening, Feb. 16.

A sparkling cast of Golden Bough players is now in rehearsal under the direction of Circle Theatre Managing Director Norman McPhee.

Versatile actor of wide professional and little theatre experience Mike Keller will appear in the lovable, zany role of Elwood P. Doud, the gentleman who sees the rabbit. Keller has just arrived from Hollywood where he played a feature role in Elvis Presley's new film, "Stay Away, Joe." He has appeared on stage with world-renowned stars, including Billie Burke, Pamela Britton and Lyle Talbot.

The young actor's versatility does not stop with onstage activities; he is also the active owner of one of Carmel's fashion shops.

Carmel's own Ruth McElroy, notable professional actress and life-long resident of Carmel, will fill the hilarious role of "Veta Louise Simmons."

Gertrude Chappell, whose acting excellence in drama as well as comedy, has won her wide critical acclaim, will appear as the self-important dowager, "Betty Chumley."

Completing the feminine trio of Circle Theatre stars will be that antic comedian Betty Fowleston, in the role of "Mrs. Ethel Chauvenet," bewildered leader of social realms.

Virginia and Louis Kay make a business of animal photography

"Each animal has a character of his own and we try to bring it out." So say the Kays, animal photographers extraordinary.

Veterans of years of specializing in animal photos for magazine advertising, greeting cards, TV publicity, etc. with the enthusiastic side-line of pet portraiture, Virginia and Louis Kay left Southern California last fall to build a home on Tierra Grande. They say that Carmel Valley is a nice change from the smoggy San Fernando.

The Kays are a happy team. Taking turns behind the camera, one snaps the shutter while the other keeps the subject happy. "If a pet isn't pleased, it will show it and you won't get a pleasant picture," Virginia says.

Sound effects help. Louis has perfected a sneeze guaranteed to produce a look of started interest. But cute expressions and amusing positions can't be forced. They have to be gently coaxed and patiently waited for, the Kays have learned.

One of their trade secrets is that "family" portraits, supposedly featuring mother cats or dogs with litters, seldom show the real momma. Usually the adult animal in the picture is the father or a good-natured uncle standing in. The mother neither looks her best nor has the patience to pose while her off-spring are very young.

The Buzza Cardoza greeting card company is one of the many customers for Kay personality-plus animal portraits. Also illustrations for the Calo pet food color booklets, "Love Your Cat" and "Love Your Dog" are the work of the clever couple.

Although used to hob-nobbing with aristocrats of the Animal Kingdom, Louis and Virginia are just as happy working with waifs from the SPCA Animal Shelter. They volunteered their services to Humane Officer Gwen May this winter and she gratefully put them to work taking Outlook "Pet of the Week" pictures to help find homes for stray cats and dogs.

But animals don't take up all their time. Postcards of motels, both interior and exterior, and color shots of scenic wonders have added to their business. For instance, one of their color scenes was used by "Arizona Highways" in its prestigious Christmas issue this last year.

Sleepy-time pals.

Homer Gruver joins Hoisington Realty

Homer Gruver, longtime Peninsula resident is now with Charles M. Hoisington, realtor, with offices located in the Carmel Valley Village.

Mr. Gruver was born in Kansas of a real estate family and his lifetime occupation has been real estate. In 1928 he entered the real estate and insurance business with his father, Homer Gruver, Sr. In 1944 he moved to Tucson, Ariz., with his wife Nellie and young family and opened his own real estate and insurance business there.

He moved to the Monterey Peninsula in 1955 and took a position with the now Title Insurance and Trust Co., as public relations and escrow officer. In 1962 he reentered real estate promotion and has worked and lived in Carmel Valley the past three years.

He now lives at 33 Poppy Rd. with his wife Nellie. Due to Mr. Gruver's heighth (he is over 6'6''), he uses the slogan, ''Longest in the business.''

The color photographs of Edward Zimbelman have been rewarded with gold medals and awards. Much of his diving experience has taken place in the waters of the Monterey Peninsula, not far from his Los Gatos home, but he has also participated in important underwater activities elsewhere.

In 1964 as a member of a three-man expedition to Greece he helped find an ancient amphorae wreck site which had not previously been known. He once joined a shark filming expedition to the island of Tikehau 400 miles north of Tahiti sponsored by Cornell University and has taken other trips off the Nicaraguan coast and to Hawaii primarily for underwater motion picture photography.

His adventures as a skindiver are source material for his lectures, published articles, and a book currently planned.

Eldon Gill to Lois Renk Realty

Eldon E. Gill, formerly vice president of the L.S. Whaley Co., well known real estate developers with headquarters in Long Beach, has joined the Investment Properties Division of Lois Renk's Real Estate by the Sea in Carmel.

A native of California who grew up in the Saratoga and Mendocino areas, Mr. Gill is a graduate of the University of Southern California. He served in World War II and the Korean conflict as a bomber pilot and pilot instructor, worked with the Polaris and Minutemen programs. He has a comprehensive knowledge of soils and farming as well as experience with investment brokerage and general real estate activities.

He and his attractive wife, Andrea (on her way to a Phd in literature), enjoy everything about this area including its cultural activities, golf, boating, fishing, hunting, gardening. Mr. Gill is a 32nd degree Mason. They have two grown sons.

At Real Estate by the Sea, Mr. Gill will join P.K. Davis in the development of the Investment Properties Division, handling commercial and development lands in the Monterey Bay and other California coastal areas.

NATONS LEAVE

Their well-worn welcome mat was the last thing loaded on the moving van when Mr. and Mrs. Paul Naton moved recently to Oakland. Despite the flurry of moving, Cindy still managed to entertain a large group of friends from the Bay Area during Crosby weekend. Cindy, Paul, and sons, Ross and Paul Jr. had been active in community projects both when they lived in the Village Manor on Village Dr. and later when they moved into the home built by them on Rancho Tierra Grande.

Mrs. James Stewart assisted by Mrs. Doug Forzani, invited friends to a recipe shower for Cindy where goodbyes were said as friends presented her with their favorite recipes and an attractive file in which to keep them as a reminder of her Valley friends.

Attending the coffee were Mrs. James Brock, Mrs. John Darch, Mrs. Theodore Gawain, Mrs. John Gusic, and Mrs. Mike Ricketts.

MUNKERS MOVE

Saying goodbyes to classmates and neighbors last week were Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Munker and four children who made their home on El Caminito. Mr. Munker has been associated with the Fuller Brush Co. Their new home will be in Florida.

Kathy Walker is court president at Middle School

Carmel Middle School students visit Humro

Two hundred forty Carmel Middle School eighth grade science students were the guests of Dr. Howard H. McFann, director of research of Human Resources Research Office located at the Presidio of Monterey, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23-24.

Albert C. Kolb, H.C. Reuter, eighth grade Middle School science teachers and their science students were invited to HumRRO to take part in programs conducted by Dr. Ernest K. Montague and Dr. Thomas G. Sticht which were designed to show the role of mathematics in collecting knowledge.

Three parents from Carmel and Carmel Valley assisting with the trip were Mrs. R.S. Barmettler, Mrs. Margaret Gardner, and Mr. Alexander Burz.

Dr. Montague conducted a demonstration research project in memorizing with the students. The students collected and analyzed data which showed that memorizing certain lists of letters was easiest if a rhyme or word association could be made with the list. They found that memorizing was hardest when each set of letters in the letter series was only slightly different from the others of the series. The final data showed that a word association could double their memorizing ability.

These students also assisted Dr. Montague in collecting data for a research project concerning attitudes that people have about certain things and what they think others feel about these same things.

Dr. Sticht presented material on "rapid listening" or "compressed speech." This is a technique whereby a normal speaking voice of about 100 words per minute was increased in speed to 200 and more words per minute by deleting portions of the words and increasing the speed in such a way as not to affect the frequency of the voice.

The students found that one group, listening at 275 words per minute, made about a 90% score, whereas the group listening at 425 words per minute made a 45% score. Most students felt that with a little more training the 425 word per minute score could be improved.

Scout Chief marks Week

Chief Scout Executive Bob Nicholson of the Monterey Bay Area Council marked Scout week with the following from his editorial spot in the council's monthly newspaper, "The Knapsack:"

February is an exciting month in Scouting. We will celebrate the 58th birthday of our great movement on Feb. 8.

Millions of boys and adults have enjoyed, over the years, the game of Scouting. Most of Scouting takes place in a Cub pack, a Boy Scout troop or an Explorer post but I would challenge you to bring other adults into our program. There are many places in which to help such as – to organize new units, be a commissioner, work on a district or council committee.

Your friend may like public speaking and if so he would fit on our leadership training team to train others. Scout-o-rama time will soon be with us and much help is needed then.

Scouting needs people who can secure financial support. February is our big month to see that our council has enough money to meet all its needs. We need much help on our sustaining membership enrollment program.

Scouting will and must have the aim to give boys character development, citizenship training and physical fitness. Let's make our birthday month an important time for all Scouting in our council.

Thank you for all your help and dedication to Scouting as a leader.

Sincerely,
BOB NICHOLSON,
Scout Executive

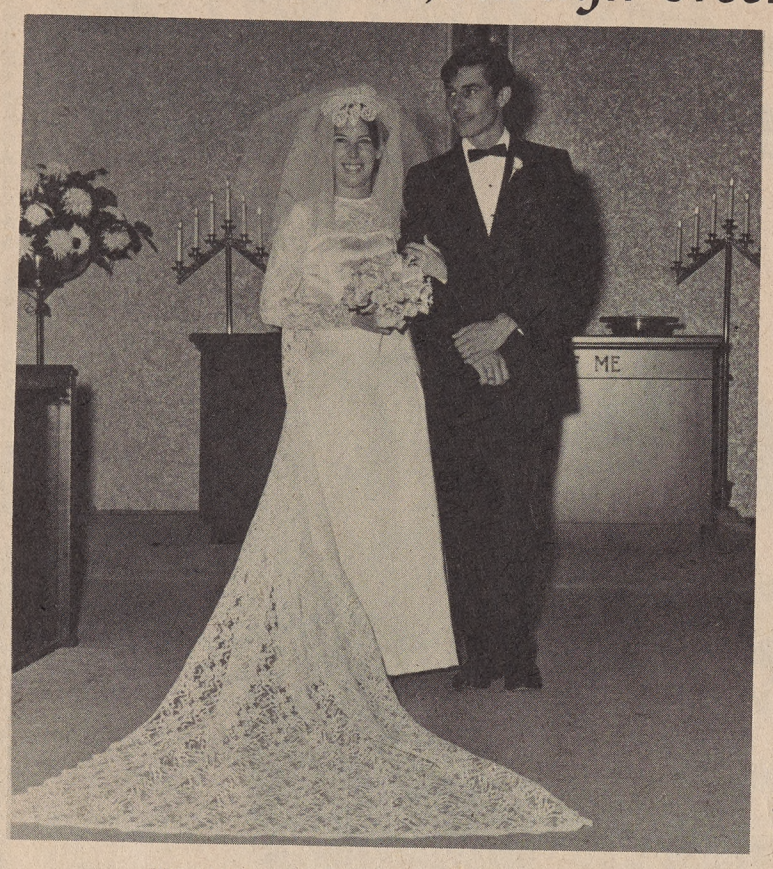
Richard Meadows, Marilyn Green wed in Carmel



MR. AND MRS. RICHARD MEADOWS, JR.

Richard B. Meadows, Jr., a native of Carmel Valley and lately a resident of San Jose, took Marilyn Ruth Green as his bride Sunday, Jan. 28 at Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Marilyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Green of China Lake. Richard's parents, the R.B. Meadows Sr., live in San Jose. His grandfather, Roy E. Meadows, resides in the Valley.

Dr. George Hunter Hall officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception in the Ritschel Room of Highlands Inn.

The bride wore a dress made by her mother of white satin with a chapel length train, a yoke of lace and long lace sleeves, over a petticoat once worn by her great-grandmother. She carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Her attendants were Miss Priscilla Gatewood of Saratoga, Miss Evelyn Meadows of San Jose and Miss Lou Ellen Jones of China Lake.

Leslie Thurston of San Jose was Richard's best man. Serving as ushers were Jerry Denson and Joseph Pearson, both of San Jose.

The bride attended Pepperdine College before taking employment at Hughes Aircraft Corp.

The bridegroom, who was born and raised in Carmel Valley, attended Carmelo School and Carmel High School. He is employed at Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in Sunnyvale.

Strathmeyer commissioned as USN ensign

JEFF STRATHMEYER

JEFFREY DENNIS-STRATHMEYER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strathmeyer, was commissioned in Naval Supply Corps an ensign Dec. 16, at Naval Training Station, Newport, R.I. He was home on leave with his family over the holidays and made a trip to Yosemite. He is now at Naval Supply School, Athens, Ga., where he will be for six months. He is serving three years of active duty in the military reserve. (Murle Ogden photo)

Community Church women to hear Harper Browns

The Women's Association of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula will have a 1 o'clock dessert meeting Tuesday, Feb. 13, to be followed by a demonstration talk on people-to-people Christianity given by Mr. and Mrs. Harper Brown of Carmel Valley.

Mr. Brown, a retired university professor and Mrs. Brown, a designer and sculptress, became interested in the social and spiritual problems of the people of Haiti while on a trip there, and with Mr. and Mrs. Jean Baptiste Lamour, established a community type church school and feeding center. The mission now feeds over 45 children daily, and, headed by the Lamours, brings the Christian message to over 200 adults living in an area of abject poverty and suppression.

The interested public is invited to attend.

On the following evening, Wednesday, Feb. 14, a regular quarterly member-body meeting will be held at the church, convening at 7 for dessert. The business meeting will be conducted by Dr. Charles Pearson, newly elected president of the board.

Science Center will demonstrate plastics

The Youth Science Center will sponsor a class in plastic embedding on Saturday, Feb. 10, at Sunset Center, Carmel, at 10 a.m. One adult per each three children is asked to attend.

Enrollment requested by phoning 455-1776, Salinas.

CLUB CALENDAR

● CV Garden Club

The Carmel Valley Garden Association will meet on Thursday, Feb. 8 at 8 p.m. in the multipurpose room of Tularcitos School.

Sherrell Ellsworth, a member from Corral de Tierra, will be guest speaker. His topic will be "Pre-spraying conditioning of lawn and garden."

New residents are especially invited to attend.

The Carmel Valley Women's Club will hold a book review, Feb. 15 from 1-3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Frank Porter on Terrace Way, just off Country Club Drive. The review will be given by Mrs. S.N. Trevino.

● Chapel Guild

The Guild of the CV Community Chapel will meet on Wednesday, Feb. 14, in the Fellowship Hall at 12:45.

Tea and coffee will be served after the program and business meeting, and several door prizes will be awarded.

Miss Jeanette Stein of Shilling Spices will speak on "Spices Around the World."

The "birthday party" of the Guild will be held after the program. Each member contributes an offering of however many years old they are and this money is used to buy gifts for two children adopted by the group. They send presents to an Indian boy and a Korean girl. Mrs. Theo Mirani is chairman of that project.

The public is welcome to attend and baby sitting will be available for young children.

● St. Dunstan's

St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church held their monthly benefit bridge and canasta party Wednesday, Jan. 31 at the Flight Rd. home of Mrs. Kathryn Walker. Co-hostess for the afternoon was Mrs. Harriet Hufford. Place mats, napkins, tallies, and nut cups all helped to provide a gay Valentine motif for the forty ladies attending. Each of the individual winners at the ten tables received a Christmas cactus plant.

Prizes for the afternoon were awarded to Mrs. Bernice Leoni who was high in bridge and to Mrs. Hazel Scott, who was second high in bridge. The canasta award was made to Mrs. Jane Korver.

The next party will be held Thursday, Feb. 29 at 12:30 at the Meeting House at the Carmel Valley Manor. Hostesses will be Mrs. Marjorie Heiner, Mrs. Dorothy Richmond, and Mrs. Helen Maxson. Mrs. Walker asks that reservations be phoned to her (659-2280) by Feb. 26.

● Audubon Society

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will meet Friday, Feb. 9, 8 p.m., at Carmel High School for an illustrated talk by Jeff Norman, a junior at Pacific Grove High School who is a part-time assistant to Dr. Abbott of the Hopkins Marine Station. His subject will be marine nudibranchs.

The regular business meeting and social hour will follow.

● USNPGS Officers' Wives

The annual Staff Wives valentine dinner-dance will be held this year on Saturday, Feb. 10. A no-host cocktail hour will begin at 7 p.m. in the La Novia Room. The dinner of rock cornish game hen and wild rice will follow at 8:30 p.m. in the El Prado Room.

Mr. Larry Pellegrini, dance club and cotillion instructor, will give a short demonstration in ballroom dancing. Corsages will be given to all ladies, and several door prizes will be awarded.

Hostesses for the dinner-dance are Mrs. J.A. Borsting of Operations Analysis and Mrs. W.H. Livingston and Mrs. W.A. Pitcher of Operations and Programs. Tickets will be available at the Commissioned Officers Mess (open) and must be purchased by Feb. 8.

The Hodge-Podge group of the Staff Wives club will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 1 p.m. in the Galleon Room. Mrs. John Cooper of the Physics department will speak on a craft known as des coupage.

This is the revival of an 18th century art craft formerly practiced in France and Italy. Basically, it consists of applying cut out designs to hardwood surfaces and varnishing them to get a porcelainized surface. Mrs. Cooper will show several pieces in various stages of work.

She stresses that this is a good hobby that is inexpensive to begin. Further information on the group may be obtained from Mrs. Abe Sheingold at 624-6091.

● Christian Women's Club

The Monterey Peninsula Christian Women's Club has issued an invitation to the dinner, "Men's Night," Tuesday, Feb. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Casa Munras.

Reservations must be made and tickets purchased by calling Mrs. Richard Darling, 372-3458 or Mrs. Hilo Campos, 394-8878 by Feb. 8. Please send money to Mrs. Millie Humphreys, 31 Via Ventura, Monterey. The tickets are $9.00 per couple and $4.50 for singles.

Speaker will be Mr. Robert Broyles, business development director, Christian Jail Workers, Inc..

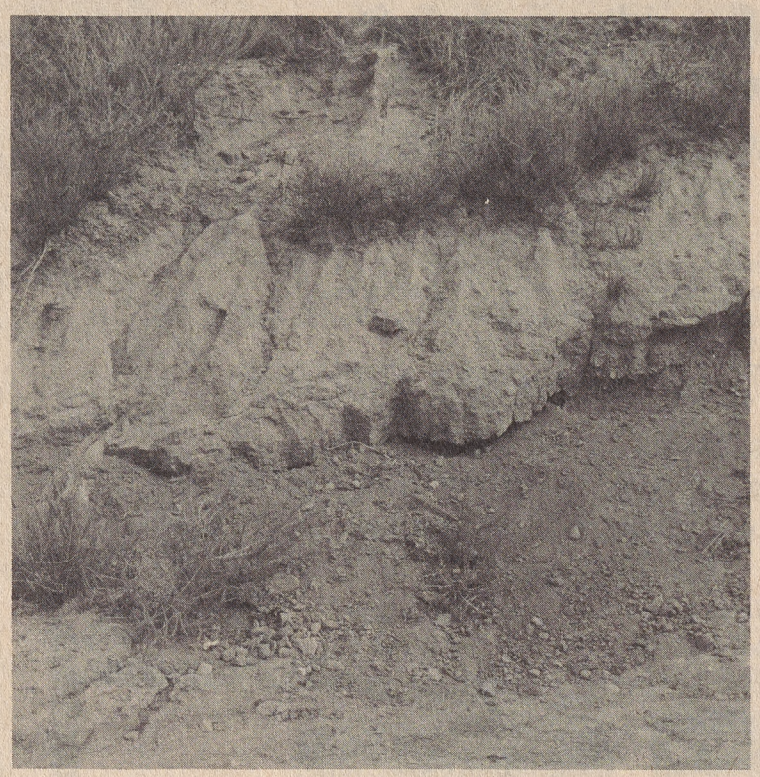
Ferns replace weeds

Carmel Valley adobe turns to tropical paradise

By MRS. FRANK PORTER

We had a terrace lot high on a hillside, with a spectacular view of the mountains from the front, but the back faced a high, blank bank of adobe. The dining lanaii opened both to the front and the back with large sliding glass doors. The problem was how to make the view to the back as attractive as that toward the front.

To make the bank a grotto of beauty, we faced the bank with beautiful moss covered rocks, covering an area approximately eight feet across and to a height of about ten feet, leaving some of the rocks protruding on which to place potted ferns. A circulating pump was installed, creating a soft flow of water through the feathery white diosma, and dropping over the rocks, and past white doves and falling into a large white shell, with St. Francis in the background, then dropping into an eight inch deep, six foot long pool.



THIS UNATTRACTIVE ADOBE bank was the view presented to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porter from the sliding glass doors in their dining lanai. Lavish use of imagination, rocks, ferns and tender loving care transformed it into the photo at right.

ST. FRANCIS STANDS in a peaceful setting of tinkling water and cool greenery in the fern grotto that transformed the barren cliff into a controlled view.

VARIETY OF FERNS

Several different types of ferns were used to grow from the obscure rock crevices, such as five finger, coffee and golden back, and small moisture plants were planted in the junctures of the rocks to create further interest.

The Boston type ferns (Adiantum Imarginatum) (edges serrated) are fast growers and do not confine themselves, but send out runners in all directions, and the roots start new plants in this way, so they constantly have to be removed here and there.

TREE FERNS

On either side of the glass doors, we planted the Australian Tree Fern (Alsophilla Australis) and they have grown to a heighth of twenty feet. For their protection, a lattice screens the top and the sides were left open. From the brown, fibrous trunks, beautiful rolled fronds emerge and they are a thing of beauty, sparkling with the morning dew.

The wooly substance that encloses the fronds is attractive to small birds as a nesting material. They unroll along the fast growing light green stems and arrange themselves in beautiful patterns to the tip of the slender, graceful stems.

As the brown trunk grows up, maiden hair fern in wired containers faced with moss, is placed around it, and it not only creates a soft atmosphere, but with a light breeze waving in fairy-like motion, and with the overhead shadows, and shimmering light from the sun filtered water in the pool, ever changes the mood of the maiden's hair.

MAIDEN HAIR

Various types of maiden hair surround the base of the tree ferns, and large white Tridacnida shells nestle in the ferns on either side.

Maiden hair hangs in baskets and also in hollowed logs of driftwood, with hare's foot ferns (Lavaekia Canariensis) with their arching branches and root stocks covered with soft, brownish silvery hair, wind themselves around the logs, making interesting texture. They thrive in a bit of leafmold and coarse sand and seem to create their own growing medium in time, and become moss covered.

Maiden hair (Adiantumpedatus) (sheds rain), so light and feathery, with shining black, some purplish brown, wiry stems, can be divided in early spring. They enjoy humous soil. Moss acts as a sponge and will hold water for some time, as will leaf mold and wood soil incorporated in a well textured mixture. During the year leaf mold may be added from time to time.

When one thinks of ferns, many shades of green, shade and cool solitude, suggest of the sweet smelling woods.

Ferns like diffused light, but will endure dense shade and grow in places that no other plants enjoy. They need moisture and protection from the sun, good drainage and prefer northern light.

In late summer allow all the dead fronds to remain until spring, as these act as a protection during the cold months.

They have simple cultural requirements and thrive for years to come, practically evergreen and free from pests, and really are a delight in any garden.

SPORTS

BASKETBALL

Carmel High varsity basketball took its second straight MTAL victory last week Tuesday at Gonzales, 59-45, but the Padres were edged, 70-67, by league-leading Palma Friday night on the home floor.

Carmel JVs and freshmen lost both contests, Gonzales JVs winning 59-41 and frosh 53-49, Palma JVs 76-45 and frosh by the close score of 53-51.

Padres meet San Lorenzo Friday night here and Pacific Grove there Saturday night.

WRESTLING

Carmel High wrestlers went down before P.G. Tuesday last week, the varsity 50-8, and the JVs 31-29.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Award Day

The Camp Fire Girls Council of Monterey Bay held an Award Day on Saturday, Jan. 20 at the Carmel Valley Community Center.

The attendance, 110 strong, enjoyed the Youth Center movie, "Errand Boy" with Jerry Lewis before moving next door to the Tularcitos School playground where sack lunches were followed by games and awards were presented to all girls participating in the council's recent sale of Camp Fire Mints.

Pacific Grove's "Sparkling Bluebirds" won top honors for having sold the most candy among the Blue Bird groups.

The Wa-Ca-Ya Camp Fire Girl Group of Seaside sold the most boxes of candy among the Camp Fire Girl groups.

Each group was presented with an engraved gavel as well as the two "traveling trophies" which will remain in their groups until the next candy sale

Girls selling over 100 boxes each were given a one-week session of day camp for this summer at Camp Chaneya in Calesa Canyon.

Sheriff's Blotter

A rash of reports concerning destruction or theft of mailboxes in Carmel was received by sheriff's deputies this week and last.

Harry Outcault of Ward Place reported someone knocking down mailboxes and road signs in his neighborhood, apparently with a vehicle. Mrs. Frances Erskin of Trevis Way and Mrs. Sarah Hawkins of Carmel Knolls Drive, also lost mailboxes and Mason Rhodes reported several yanked off posts and damaged. Joyce Todd Rutty, Carmelo and 16th, reported theft of two boxes and Conrad Schulhuis, in the same house, had his taken.

Mrs. Katherine Prine reported vandalism to gas lamp post and theft of news box and post. Robert Walthour of Hadley Drive lost a mailbox and it was noted by a deputy that the mailbox was missing and porch light broken at the F.A. Randolph residence, also on Hadley Drive.

Other blotter items included:

Jan. 30

Juanita Tomajo, staying at the Dudley Sanford's residence, Carmel Valley Road, reported someone trying to break in.

Jan. 31

Kathleen Draper, Rancho Rd., C.V., reported suspicious person around planes at Valley airstrip.

SLOW MARKET?
NOT IF YOUR PROPERTY IS

(1) Offered at a price in line with current market value;
(2) Adequately advertised in appropriate markets; and
(3) Competently presented to carefully qualified buyers.

Perhaps you've been having trouble selling your property because one of the three is missing. May we help? We would particularly like to help you with your price, for no matter how much is spent on advertising, an overpriced house just will not sell. And when a home remains unsold too long, buyers fear something fundamental is wrong with it. Overpricing extends selling time and increases the inconvenience of fruitless showings. It prolongs your carrying costs such as taxes, insurance, interest on investment, repairs and maintenance – and it quite effectively prevents you from getting on to the next project in your life. No obligation of any kind in consulting us, of course.

CV Chamber of Commerce

more police protection. "It's a shame when Valley homes are torn to pieces, a woman knocked down in her driveway and businesses broken into," Brownell said.

The chamber voted to write Pacific Telephone Co., at the motion of Bob Kvenild, asking that a sidewalk be extended in front of its building. The county will also be asked to improve Carmel Valley Rd. to the proposed sidewalk, as it did in front of the Chatterbox Restaurant.

The problem of mail being mis-sent and held up because of Carmel addresses halfway up the Valley was cited by Pres. Bottaro. He reported that mailings for the opening of the new Shell station which has a Carmel address, at the entrance to CV Golf and Country Club were held up so late as to be useless, because, addressed to Carmel Valley, they were returned marked "missent to Carmel Valley."

Bottaro reported that CV Postmaster Sam Brandt returned an average of a complete sack of mail daily last Christmas time, because of being addressed to CV, instead of Carmel.

PAST EFFORTS

The chamber in the past has tried to change the mail situation, but was told by the San Francisco regional post office that a change would add to the confusion. Bottaro added that he is contacting Congressman Burt Talcott.

The chamber offered to help the local PlanCom Advisory Committees tighten sign control. Several illegal hanging signs were cited, and Dr. Ed Marcucci, PlanCom chairman, pointed out that signs come under county control.

Rex White added that County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain about three years ago had promised more accurate road directional signs at key spots, but they haven't been changed yet.

Treas. Ken Van Hagen reported $2,660.52 in the treasury and 53 paid-up members. Goal is 100 members with a budget for the coming year of $3,500.

The chamber approved purchase of 900 packages of CV wildflower seeds from the Village Committee for $27, for distribution in mail replies.
